DIRECTORS ARE DISGUSTED

Appreciating that Barrett Agitated Matter for Personal Greed
—Dale Answers all Charges

There was a crowd of anxious spectators standing about the entrance to the room where the telephone directors met last night when they convened to hear the trial of O. M. Dale. Several witnesses, lawyers, newspaper men and others swelled the crowd in the room, and in fact it was one of the largest attended meetings ever held by the board.

After two or three innings the score stood nothing to nothing and the board adjourned. Smith, Cambern & Smith, representing Dale, made separate answers to all the charges (?) preferred against him by director Barrett, and after answering same a motion was made to dismiss the entire proceedings, as there was no specific instances noted in the charges and nothing sufficient to warrant the asking for the resignation of the secretary manager.

Several of the directors declared openly that they thought there was nothing produced against Dale derogatory to the company's interests and said the whole proceedings were "a lot of trumped-up baby play," those who had not the courage to speak their convictions remained quiet. Some people would rather bray and bellow after the fashion of a country mule: he will stay on the farm six days in the week eating grass and working and never utter a sound, but let the ladies hitch him to a carriage and drive to town on Saturday and he will stop and bray on every corner.

George Young picked up the answer filed by Dale's attorneys and started to elucidate when he was asked why he was there and whom he was representing. He replied that he was representing the stockholders. When asked "what stockholders?" he would not give any answer. After an embarrassing wait of several minutes Barrett, who hopes to become the secretary-manager, had to answer for Young. He replied that he had spoken to him, and in the same breath, Young blurted out that director Kelly had spoken to him. After much debating and a demand from the board, it was said that Young was there on request of Marion McCann, Charles Hugo, John Reardon and a few others.

The entire proceedings, since the very beginning, has been along drawn out farce and is not worthy the attention of sober thinking, sensible men to follow. It was instigated by Barrett and it has been carried through by him, without adding any dignity or fresh laurels to his wrinkled brow. His stock with men has taken a big drop since the matter was first agitated. At the beginning, the public realized that he was doing it all for a personal gain, from the manner he conducted himself and his attacks. He has undoubtedly done the company an irreparable loss, damaging its credit and putting it in a bad light before men.

Had he been sincere, he would have quietly gathered together evidence against Dale (he would have done that had it been a case to try in the circuit court) and then, without tooting his horn or without the clanging of bells, he would have gone before the board of directors with formal charges against the man. If he knew of any unfair dealings or breach of trust on the part of any employee, he was in duty bound, by virtue of the trust the stockholders placed in him when they selected him as a director, to report such matters in the proper manner and no doubt they would have been disposed of in the same summary manner.

By his actions he has caused a majority of the leading stockholders to doubt that he had an honest motive and the result is that they are beginning to tire of the wrangling and will see that he will be dismissed from the board at the proper time. If Dale is guilty of any wrongdoing, the tactics employed by Barrett have proven to be a protection for him: too many bitter remarks were dropped to make one believe on the face of it that it was anything short of politics, or personal greed, or persecution: at best it was nothing more than Barrettism.

Barrett was a Hearst man a few years ago and went out on a secret mission in this district in the interest of the "yellow" New Yorker. Later when that gentleman was put on the unfair list of the Democrat party, Barrett was virtually left out in the cold. It was then that he hit upon the happy plan of having himself reinstated with the party in Rush county. For some time he has coveted the position of secretary-manager of the telephone company, and in trying to reach that goal, he shifted upon the stage of action a double set of scenery. One was to appeal to the board and telephone directors and the other was a heart appeal to the Democratic party. He set himself up as aviator of the company and began to write a serial story, after the order of Tom Lawson, for the local organ, setting forth all he intended to do. The only definite action which he took was done after he was crowded by this publication and several members of the board, who knew he was "four-flush-ing" and called his bluff.

More specific charges were promised last night for the next meeting which will be held on next Tuesday morning.

O. M. Dale intends to resign his position when his term expires in April and had informed all the directors—including Barrett—but of course in the meantime, it behooves Barrett to make as much capital of the situation as possible. Many people would have never known he was in the county, if it had not been for this spectacular play he has made. He deserves some credit for getting his name before the people. There will probably be three or four in each township who will think he is a "regular Ida Tarbell," but the people who know him and his methods are laughing up their sleeves at him: some of the less polite, laugh right in his face. But this is all wrong. Psychology teaches us that some men are born with ambition that is eight times as large as their ability to do things. All of us are striving for recognition and fame, so let us be charitable.

LECTURE COURSE WILL BE CONTINUED

County Superintendent will take Charge of Program for next Season

Since the committee in charge of the Rushville lecture course have abandoned and will not carry on the course next year, County Superintendent W. O. Headlee, believing that these courses have been a good thing for the general public and should be continued, has taken up the work, where the committee left off.

Mr. Headlee has had quite a little experience in securing talent for chautauqua programs and the people feel confident that the work will be carried to the best interest of the community.

Some excellent talent has already been secured by Mr. Headlee for the course next season, including Victor's Band, Dr. Thomas E. Green, who has a famous lecture on "The Key of the Twentieth Century," Adrian Lewis, Thomas Brooks Fletcher and the Lyceum Grand Concert company.

SOUTHERN EVANGELIST IS DRAWING CROWDS

Rev. Wm. M. S. McCutcheon preached to a large congregation last evening, his subject being, "The Pale Horse and Rider." This well chosen theme was discussed in his usual masterly way. His subject for this evening is "Rotten Rags." Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. Sunday morning. There will be preaching at 3 o'clock and usual evening meeting. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Four Years Old

We Throw Aside Our Gingham
Skirts to Put on Our First Pair of Pants and We Are a "Little Man"
After Today.

Four years old today. And it is with a deal of pride that the Daily Republican observes this anniversary. Few enterprises in the State, and surely not one similar enterprise can boast of the signal success and achievements that have marked the first four years of our existence as a daily publication. A hearty indorsement of our efforts by the people of this county has spurred us on in an honest endeavor to give the public one of the best newspapers possible. By their liberal patronage we have been able to grow until we can say with our heads high in the air, that we have one of the most complete and best equipped printing offices in Eastern Indiana,—a city printing office in a country town.

Our growth in the past year has been little short of marvelous. In the face of many inducements off red and concentrated effort of other local publications it has easily been our banner year. In point of subscriptions, we can truthfully note a fact that only men old in the business can readily appreciate. During the past twelve months we have added over five hundred new daily subscribers. And this in view of the fact that we already had the largest subscription list by several hundred and that we secured every one of the new patrons without one word of solicitation. Don't you think that means something? Of course there is a reason—there is always a reason—and in this instance it is not necessary for us to blow our own horn when the public is continually serenading us.

During the past year we have expended several thousand dollars by adding new and up-to-date machinery. With our large double-feed Babcock Dispatch press we are enabled to print three thousand newspapers in an hour. In this day and age speed counts for everything, and ten minutes at the closing hour of going to press and getting the papers to our patron means, as much to us as a day meant just a few years ago—hence the new and costly equipment.

Within the next few weeks we will install a linotype machine at a cost of three thousand five hundred dollars. With the advent of the new machine, which is the highest standard of type setting machinery, we will be able to take care of a number of details, which now must of necessity be neglected. We will be able to make the Daily Republican columns brighter in many respects and more attention will be given to the publishing or personal news, of local news in a minor key, (which in the past were sidetracked for more important news articles,) and ever so many little things which go to make a big, bright and breezy paper. Several new departments will be added and the entire paper worked over into one of the best small city dailies in the west. Even though we have been handicapped in the past, our paper has been conceded by newspaper men of Indiana as always being one of the newest "sheets" published in the State. We mean to sustain that enviable reputation and even enlarge on past efforts, ambitions and accomplishments and give to the people of Rush county a newspaper to which they can well point with pride, saying: "This is OUR paper."

We reach four-fifths of the people who do their buying and trading in Rushville, and this fact is amply appreciated by the merchants who patronize our columns. But advertising is a commodity which newspapers always have an "elegant sufficiency" on the shelf, and we are ever willing to "talk it over" with the business men. A thought, which appears in the March issue of Success, might be applicable here and of assistance to some who struggle along in the dark without awakening to the realization of the importance of advertising. "In advertising" it says, "the economy of today is often the loss of tomorrow; the expense of today the profit of tomorrow."

We do not believe in promising our patrons much and then delivering little, but rather hang on the policy that pleasant surprises are the things mostly appreciated; and in this connection we feel satisfied that we are in position to "drop the hint" to the people of Rush county that they can always depend on something "distinctly different" in the Daily Republican. We are always open for suggestions and are always pleased to receive, either by phone, note or verbally, items of news; we want your heart co operation in making our paper complete each day.

We are pleased to greet our patrons on our fourth birthday. With all the pride of youth we put off our short dresses and don our first pair of knickerbockers, for we are now "a little man." Four years old today, with our hands down in our first pockets and our head reared back, we begin to strand down the course of our fifth year.

IT'S A HAPPY ANNIVERSARY WITH US.

DEMOCRATS MAY PUT UP A "GIBSON TYPE"

There is some talk among the local Democrats of putting forward the name of editor Roy M. Gibson, as a candidate for Representative. While Mr. Gibson is a newcomer, still he is serving the party in a manner that he could almost demand anything within reason from them.

THE WEATHER

Threatening tonight and Sunday with possibly snow flurries in north portion. Sunday much colder.

Country schools are now practicing "last day."

NO MORE SHADE FROM THE OLD APPLE TREE

Dave Clairy, of Morristown, performed what might be termed a historical act Tuesday. He cut down an apple tree standing in his garden, planted by his own hand 56 or 57 years ago. It was a seedling which he found growing, then a mere twig, at the end of a tie while walking along the old Knightstown railroad one Sunday afternoon and took it up. He has lived to see his protegee grow to fruitage and after bearing many years started to decay.

Morristown Sun: This vicinity was the scene of a mad-dog scare Monday. A small black dog jumped over into the yard of Mad Talbert and soon after was seen in convulsions. After biting Mr. Talbert's dog the animal disappeared and has not been seen since.

PASTOR HAS PECULIAR SUBJECT SUNDAY NIGHT

Rev. J. F. Cowling will speak on "The Little Man of Jericho"

The services at the First Presbyterian church will be very interesting and instructive Sunday evening. The pastor, Rev. J. F. Cowling will preach at this hour on "Christ and the Little Man of Jericho," making an application to men of today. This subject is of an evangelistic nature and should be heard by everyone who can be present.

DR. HUGHES IS A GREAT ORATOR

Face is Familiar Before Every Audience in State of Indiana

WILL HAVE MANY HEARERS

Only one More Big Meeting after Next Sunday for this Season

The men of Rushville and vicinity will have an opportunity next Sunday at 2:30 p. m. to hear one of the most brilliant men in Methodism and one of Indiana's noted orators, Pres. E. H. Hughes, of Greencastle.

Dr. Hughes is a student, educator, writer and lecturer. Considering the few years Dr. Hughes has been a citizen of Indiana one is surprised to know how well known he is over the State. His name is a household word and his face is familiar to an Indiana audience anywhere.

He was the presiding officer at the "Riley Meeting" of the Indiana Teachers Association at Indianapolis a year ago when Senator Beveridge, Henry Watterson, Mr. Williams editor of the Indianapolis News and other notable of the State were on the program. Dr. Hughes in his introductory remarks set a pace which the other speakers could not touch. His address sparkled with wit, humor and gems of thought.

When the last word is said and the last song is sung at the Men's Big Meeting next Sunday and you file out of the Presbyterian church you will be forced to say that this has been a great meeting, that was a fine address, the music was excellent and it was good to have been here.

The inspiration of a large assembly of stalwart men, the pleasing cadences of the instrumental and vocal music and the thrilling sensation of a strong stirring message elevates and strengthens one's life.

STUDENTS TO PLAY "COLLEGE WIDOW"

Rushville High School Graduating Class will Produce Strong, Popular Play

The high school spring graduating class has selected George Ade's great play, "The College Widow" to produce in the early part of June. It is a much stronger play than their success of last year, "Just Out of College." Rehearsals will begin in a few days.

The small boy and girl have laid away their house games and Teddy bears and are now flying around on roller skates over the long stretches of cement walks in Rushville. It's a good, healthful exercise.

FATE TURNS THE TABLES ON HIM

Saloon Keeper who Assaulted Rev. Sniff is Stabbed by Drunken Men

PERFORMING ACT OF MERCY

While Protecting an Interurban Conductor he was Attacked and Severely Wounded

One of those queer, inexplicable pranks of fate occurred within the past few days at Paris, Illinois, in which a former Rushville pastor, was one of the central figures.

A few days ago Rev. W. W. Sniff was assaulted and knocked down by a saloon keeper named Sizemore, when the pastor was performing an act of mercy, that of lifting a drunken man from the gutter. The saloon man was heavily fined and apologized saying he did not know who the pastor was and thought it was someone interfering who had no right to do so.

Thursday the tables were turned. While the saloon keeper was trying to protect an interurban conductor, who was attacked by several drunken men, he was stabbed in the back.

A dispatch to the Indianapolis newspapers from Paris gives the story as follows:

"Prompt action on the part of Otis Sizemore, of this city, saved the life of conductor Morton on the Paris-Terre Haute interurban line last night. The conductor was attempting to quiet several drunken passengers who were causing a disturbance and was attacked by them. One was in the act of stabbing him in the back with a large knife when Sizemore struck the man with his fist, knocking him from the car. Sizemore stepped to the door to see the effect of his blow the man reached up and inflicted a deep stab wound in the region of the groin, missing the femoral artery only a fraction of an inch. The injury was dressed on arrival here.

"Sizemore is a saloon keeper and gained notoriety of a different kind last week when he assaulted and knocked down the Rev. W. W. Sniff, a local minister, who is identified with the local option campaign."

AMOS CLIFFORD DIES IN INDIANAPOLIS HOME

Was Born in Rush County in 1838—
Has Sister Living
Here

Amos Clifford, for many years prominently identified with various organizations of the Christian church, died very suddenly at his home in Indianapolis yesterday from neuralgia of the heart.

Born in Rush county, Indiana, September 9th, 1838, Mr. Clifford went to Indianapolis in 1872, and engaged in business as a flour and feed merchant. He retired from business about fifteen years ago on account of failing health.

Surviving are the widow, who was Rebecca Shortridge, to whom he was married in 1862; a daughter, Mrs. Raymond Smith, and a son, P. H. Clifford, secretary and treasurer of the Lesh Paper company. Four brothers and sisters also survive. They are Vincent G. Clifford, of Indianapolis; B. F. Clifford, of Chicago, Mrs. J. E. Smith, of Rush county, and M. L. Clifford, judge of the Superior court, Tacoma, Wash.

Shelbyville News: Samp Casady was a phenomenon at the Casady alleys Friday night when he bowled with the City Club against the strong independents, his lowest score being 201.

Friday, March 13th, has passed and the superstitious can sleep in peace once more.

TRIAL FOR MURDER

Tramps That Killed Sheriff
Oglesby to Be Heard at Winamac.

NOW SERVING SENTENCE

Since the Tragedy Last October They Have Been Held In Safety at State Prison.

In the Meantime They Had Been Given an Indeterminate Sentence
For Burglary.

Michigan City, Ind., March 14.—Frank Webb and John Smith have been removed from the state prison to Winamac to be tried for killing Charles Oglesby, sheriff of Pulaski county, at Winamac, last October. Three tramps, who included Webb and Smith, committed burglary in White county, and escaped by boarding a train for Winamac. Oglesby was notified by wire, and when the train reached Winamac he attempted to arrest them. A revolver duel followed and Oglesby and one of the tramps were mortally wounded. Webb and Smith were captured. They were tried at Monticello for burglary, and each was sentenced from two to fourteen years' imprisonment. They were also indicted at Winamac for murder, and they are now to be tried on that charge.

IMPORTANT CAPTURE

Police Believe Notorious "Lake Shore"
Gang Has Been Rounded Up.

Muncie, Ind., March 14.—That the notorious Lake Shore gang of robbers and yeggmen has been reorganized is the belief of many police departments between Indianapolis and Buffalo, N. Y. Muncie, Union City and Greenville (O.) officers believe they now have in custody three members of the reorganized gang. Railroad detectives who assisted in the rounding up at Union City of a trio giving various names are confident that the old gang has come to life and is partly responsible for the numerous box-car robberies that the railroads have suffered in the last few months.

The three men who were captured near Union City were traced by officers to a spot in the country at which the thieves had secreted a large quantity of valuable merchandise. One giving his name as Tim Sweeney and his residence as East Sixth street, in this city, was not identified by Muncie officers who went to Union City for that purpose and who also went to Greenville, O., where the men were taken. The Union City marshal caught two of the trio single-handed and after landing them in jail, succeeded in rounding up the third.

The Lake Erie & Western railroad alone has lost many thousands of dollars' worth of property from box-cars in various yards recently and that road, as well as the Big Four, has begun a campaign against them.

Farmers Wouldn't Stand for It.
Evansville, Ind., March 14.—Members of the American Society of Equity and representatives of the various labor unions of the First congressional district met here and organized a labor conference. The assembly was a stormy one, the sensational feature being the voting down of a resolution condemning temperance measures and declaring prohibition ruinous to the labor interests. Farmers who attended the convention stated that the effort to inject liquor subjects into the Equity meetings over the state would fail, for the reason that a majority of the farmers of the state have assisted the temperance people in curbing the power of the saloons.

Crusade Against Gambling.
Lafayette, Ind., March 14.—Prosecuting Attorney Frank Kimmel has begun a crusade against poker playing. Twenty-five affidavits were filed against a number of well-known men of the city for gambling and frequenting gambling places. Several of the men admitted they played cards for money. Two of the accused men paid their fines quietly, giving John Doe names and slipped out of publicity. Some of the gamblers mixed up in the affair learned of the filing of the affidavits and before the police got to them they had left the city.

May Nullify the Charge.
Elkhart, Ind., March 14.—Coroner Dewey, in his verdict on the death of Edward Westfall, expresses the belief that the fatal injury was caused by a kick from a horse, probably after Westfall had fallen from the hayloft ladder, just back of the horses in Jas. Overlee's barn. Overlee is under $10,000 bond, accused of Westfall's murder; the grand jury returning an indictment before the coroner filed his report.

Many Witnesses Called.
Evansville, Ind., March 14.—The preliminary trial of Thomas H. Stone of Indianapolis, Homer E. Stone of Terre Haute, and Solen E. Burke of this city, charged with conspiracy to defraud in connection with their management of an employment agency in these three cities is in progress in the city court before Judge Winfrey. Over a hundred witnesses have been subpoenaed.

WALSH UNDER BOND

Pending Appeal Convicted Banker Still Has His Freedom.

Chicago, March 14.—John R. Walsh, former president of the Chicago National bank, of this city, and convicted of illegal use of the funds of that institution, was sentenced to serve five years in the penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth by Judge Anderson, after the court had denied the plea for a new trial. The court further directed that all the counts in the indictment be served concurrently and further directed that the defendant pay the entire cost of the trial.

An application was immediately made to Judge Grosscup of the United States circuit court of appeals, for a supersedeas, which was granted, and Walsh was released under bonds of $50,000 pending the hearing of his appeal. John R. Walsh had for many years been interested in the stone quarries and railroads in Indiana.

THE BIGGEST EVER

Appropriations for Postoffice Break All Former Records.

Washington, March 14.—Carrying the largest appropriation in all its history—$222,190,392—the postoffice appropriation bill passed the house of representatives, having been under discussion fourteen days. This is $1,425,000 more than was reported by the committee. Chairman Overstreet, when the reading of the bill had been concluded, waged a vigorous fight on the proposition to increase the pay of the letter carriers, which was voted into the bill last Wednesday, but that action was confirmed, 136 to 126.

The closing debate on the bill dwelt mainly on the rural delivery service, the only amendment to get through being one increasing by $200,000 the appropriation therefor. The house then passed a number of private bills. The pension appropriation bill is under consideration today.

Senator Bacon of Georgia in the senate spoke of executive encroachment on the legislative power of the government and read freely from newspaper reports to show that legislation is being mapped out in the White House at conferences at which congressmen are not even present. The bill providing for the shipment of material intended for the Panama canal in American ships, was passed. The senate is not in session today.

Tragedy Over Eggs.

Carmi, Ill., March 14.—John W. Fulford was killed and Loten Dale was seriously wounded in a gun duel in Main street. Dale was arrested. It is said the men, who were horsemen, quarrelled over the alleged theft of eggs. There were many people in the street at the time of the shooting.

Wife Beater Punished.

Petersburg, Ind., March 14.—William Arnold, east of this city, has been fined $100, with fifteen days in jail, for wife beating. Mrs. Arnold was so severely pummeled that she had to be assisted into the courtroom in order to testify against her husband. She has already applied for divorce.

CAPITAL FRAUDS

Pennsylvania Gratified at Conviction of Boodle Conspirators.

ALL FOUR FOUND GUILTY

Sanderson, Snyder, Mathues and Shumaker Now Facing a Term
In State Penitentiary.

Outcome of Trial Involving Alleged Boodling of $9,000,000 of the States Money.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 14.—The jury in the first of the capital conspiracy cases to be tried gave a verdict of guilty as to every one of the four men who have been on trial here for the last seven weeks, after six hours' deliberation. The men found guilty are: John H. Sanderson, contractor; William P. Snyder, former auditor general; W. L. Mathues, former state treasurer, and James M. Shumaker, former superintendent of public buildings and grounds. Motions for new trials were made in each case.

Only Sanderson and Snyder were in court when the verdict was given and neither would talk. None of the counsel for the defendants would say anything about the case. The state's attorneys when questioned said that they were pleased with the result of the hard work. Maximum penalties for each defendant in this case is two years' imprisonment and $1,000 fine.

The four men were convicted of defrauding the state by charging the state about $13,000,000 for capital construction instead of $4,000,000, the figure at which the contract was estimated. The present case constituted one of the longest jury trials in the history of Pennsylvania courts, and it attracted much attention throughout the country.

The prosecution of the alleged frauds was the outcome of the political upheaval in Pennsylvania in 1905, which resulted in the election of Wm. H. Berry, a Democrat, as state treasurer, in the fall of that year. Berry threw open the books of the state treasury and showed that the cost of building the capitol was more than three times the amount of the contract. The case was laid before the attorney general and indictments were found against fourteen persons.

When the cases now pending against the four persons who have just been convicted are concluded, the other defendants will be heard. The state claims that there are frauds amounting to nearly $5,000,000 in the furnishings of the capitol.

MUCH IMPROVEMENT

Both the Tone and Volume of Business Considerably Strengthened.

New York, March 14.—Bradstreet's weekly review of trade today says: There is quite considerable improvement in both the tone of general distributive trade and in the volume of business actually booked by jobbers. Withal, however, there is little change to be seen in the character of the buying, which is still along very conservative lines, and while the volume of business doing is larger now than at any time since last fall, the shrinkage from a year ago is distinct and unmistakably large. Collections are still very backward; prices of staples tend lower, as for a long time past; the earning power of employees in many lines of industry is being curtailed by short time or wage reductions, and the threat is made that a refusal to accept lower wages may result in a widespread suspension of activity in the coal trade. The demand for iron and steel shows little real expansion, aside from some lines like wire and similar goods.

One of the best situated lines of trade in the country, so far as current demand is concerned, is millinery, which seems to be in fairly brisk sale by jobbers. Drygoods of various kinds, groceries, hardware, implements and paints are also moving fairly well. The jewelry trade is concerned at the weakness in diamonds. The Kentucky whisky output for this spring is only one-third that of a year ago.

WOMAN'S GREAT POWER

Is Urged in the Fight for Pure Food
Now Being Waged.

Washington, March 14.—An urgent plea for pure food in the household was made by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture, in an address before the international congress on the welfare of the child, which is being held under the auspices of the National Mothers' Congress. Dr. Wiley emphasized the importance of the mothers of the country being eternally vigilant as to the source of food products that come into their homes; to see that they are fresh, uncontaminated, palatable and wholesome. Dr. Wiley advocated the formation of a union of the mistresses of households which, he said, by singleness of purpose, unity of action and power of organization, could secure a better conformity to the law than any vigilance on the part of the executors of the law would be able to accomplish.

DR. GOOD NOMINATED

Eleventh District Convention Settled on the 609th Ballot.

Marion, Ind., March 14.—Not until 609 ballots had been taken did the Eleventh district Republican congressional convention decide who should be its candidate in the coming campaign.

The choice of the convention fell upon Dr. Charles H. Good of Huntington, who received 61½ votes to 51½ votes cast for George B. Lockwood, editor of the Marion Chronicle and private secretary to Vice President Fairbanks.

Early taking the lead, Good and Lockwood were looked upon as the formidable rivals in the race which began in the convention Thursday afternoon and did not end until late last evening. The withdrawal Thursday night of McKee, Condo and Tharp distributed their forces pretty evenly among the remaining aspirants for the coveted nomination, and the battle was waged without intermission throughout that night and all day Friday. Forty ballots from the end Reeves withdrew, which further concentrated the forces. Murphy then held the key position until the 609th ballot, when his forces scattered to the leading candidates with the result above noted.

A RECEPTIVE CANDIDATE

Governor Johnson Is Not Opposing the Activity of His Friends.

St. Paul, March 14.—Governor Johnson's presidential headquarters will be established in Chicago, and may be extended to include New York and Washington. Frank A. Day, secretary to Governor Johnson, and F. B. Lynch are now in Chicago looking for suitable rooms. Governor Johnson admits that Mr. Day is in Chicago investigating. He was not sure, though, that headquarters would be opened. The governor said, however, that if headquarters were opened and an aggressive campaign was decided upon, that those in charge would open an additional headquarters in New York. The governor, however, disclaims any connection with what is being done or any knowledge of what line of activity is contemplated.

Since the action of the Democratic state central committee in endorsing him for president, Governor Johnson's mail has increased to vast proportions and the telegrams are many. Most of these are from the East. Very frequently conferences with Eastern visitors are held. Whatever activity there is in connection with Governor Johnson's presidential boom seems to be entirely the work of interested friends. The only aid the governor is giving is by non-interference.

FAMOUS PEOPLE

JOHN MITCHELL, THE LABOR LEADER.

JOHN MITCHELL, the labor leader and President of the United Mine Workers of America, at the age of thirty-three headed an army of 150,000 men in the great coal strike, the greatest labor struggle in history. His calmness, coolness, self-poise, courage and sterling honesty carried him bravely and unfaltering through a fierce fight.

He had to meet on the one hand, millionaire mine-owners safely entrenched behind the ramparts of their wealth, and able to stand a long siege; on the other hand the members of the union itself, thousands of whom were ignorant foreigners whose passions might in a moment convert them into a mob; vain, envious, self-seeking orators and delegates looking for spoils; and, scheming, tricky, ambitious leaders even in the councils. Between the millionaires and the miners was the world of industry clamoring for coal to keep the wheels of trade moving.

With remarkable strength and to his personal credit, Mr. Mitchell kept a clear mind and a cool head in a severely testing crisis. He was born in Braidwood, Ill., the son of a miner, in 1869, and at the age of four was left an orphan under the care of his stepmother. His school training was slight, for at thirteen he was picking coal at the mines; but he studied at night and became interested in economic questions and at sixteen joined the Knights of Labor. For five years he traveled in the West, working his way from one mine to another, earning enough to keep him, and broadening his mind by a larger outlook on life and a closer study of labor problems in a practical, personal way. These years of experience made an excellent training for the larger future of the young champion of labor.

In 1895 he became Secretary-Treasurer of a district organization of the United Mine Workers, and rapidly rose from one post of honor to another until he became President in 1899, the membership of the Union increasing from 43,000 to over 800,000 in four years and winning great victories in increased wages, shorter hours and other concessions for its members.

Mr. Mitchell is a man of such wonderful executive ability, such shrewd business sagacity and so magnetic in his strong personality that he could readily earn more than his present salary of $1800 a year were he to enter the business world. He has stood loyally and steadfastly by all contracts with Capital, feeling that the one basis of the strength of organized labor must be its respect for the sacredness of the contracts and agreements, which honor, not law, must make them fulfil in their battles with organized capital.

BRITONS ELATED

They See a Possibility of a Visit From the Big Fleet.

London, March 14.—The announcement that the American battleship fleet will return from the Pacific to the Atlantic by way of the Suez canal, has created the greatest interest among naval officers here, who are anxious to see the American vessels and observe the effects of the long cruise upon them. A prominent naval officer has suggested that the government should send an invitation to the battleships to come to England, or if that should be impossible, for them to make an official call at some British port enroute home. There will be opportunity for British officers to show courtesies to the officers of the fleet during its visit to Australia, at coaling stations and other points, but these naturally will be on a small scale, when compared with what will be done should the battleships come to England or stop at Malta or Gibraltar.

Mr. Lilley Will Face Naval Committee
 Without Attorneys.

Washington, March 14.—Representative Lilley of Connecticut on next Monday will face the submarine investigating committee without legal counsel to advise him. It has been learned that the Connecticut attorneys engaged with him at the committee hearing on Thursday, have thrown up their engagement and gone home. They gave as the reason the refusal of the committee to permit examination or cross-examination of witnesses by persons other than members of the committee except through written questions first submitted to the committee for its approval. They felt that under such a restrictive arrangement legal talent could be of no assistance to Mr. Lilley.

W. B. REDUSO for LARGE WOMEN

Restraints tendency to overfleshiness, and moulds the over-developed proportions into graceful outlines hitherto thought to be obtainable only by slighter figures.

This splendid result is attained by an unusual apron extension which reaches down over the abdomen and hips, giving the wearer absolute freedom of movement.

This feature absolutely eliminates the necessity of any harness-like devices and straps, hitherto deemed essential on corsets of this kind.

ALL THE WORLD IS GLAD

Expressions From European Capitals Exhibit Keen Pleasure at Announcement of Program.

Americans Gratified That the Flag
 Is to Be Shown All the Way Around the World.

San Diego, Cal., March 14.—News that the American battleship fleet is to undertake a tour of the world within two months after its arrival at San Francisco on May 5, was flashed by wireless telegraph to the battleships of Admiral Evans's command at Magdalena bay last night by the government station at Point Loma. Practically all the messages were in code, but they included the news that the itinerary of the world cruise, starting from San Francisco on July 6 and including Hawaii, Samoa, Australia and the Philippines in the points to be visited, had been formally approved by the president and his cabinet.
 They also included the cordial messages of congratulation from the president and the navy department.

These messages were read to the crews of the sixteen ships at "quarters" this morning, at which time announcement of the Suez route and another round of friendly visits to hospitable foreign ports was made. The news was received on board the vessels by officers and crews alike with the greatest degree of satisfaction. It has generally been understood for some time in naval circles that the trip back to the Atlantic station would be made by way of Suez, but the official announcement, coupled with the early date of starting on the second half of the world's greatest naval maneuver, gave keen pleasure to the men, already proud of the notable achievements of their fleet.

Admiral Evans, who will relinquish command of the fleet during its forthcoming stay at San Francisco and who goes on the retired list when he attains the age of sixty-two years in August, was expecting some official word from Washington on the subject of the future movements of the fleet, and it was in view of this and to enable the department to prepare its program, that he sent a message last night of his arrival off Magdalena bay to the effect that the ships could start on any mission at a day's notice and were in far better shape as to machinery and efficiency of crews than the day of sailing from Hampton Roads.
 The fact that but two months is to be allowed between the arrival of the fleet at San Francisco and its departure for the far East indicates that no serious repairs are needed for any of the vessels, and the further fact that any stays that may be made in dry docks will be exceedingly short. The residents of the coast are somewhat disappointed over the brevity of the ships' stay in these waters, but they are proportionally proud of the fact that the flag is to be shown all the way around the world.

Some comment is occasioned here by the fact that no mention is made of the possibility of a visit of the battleships to Japanese waters. A formal invitation from Japan, it is said, might be complied with during the stay of the fleet in the Philippines or after the completion of the fall target practice.

Call for Sixth District Convention.

Pursuant to an order of the Republican District Committee, you are invited to meet in delegate convention, in the city of Shelbyville, on April 9, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for representative from this district to the congress of the United States.

The convention will assemble at 10:30
 a. m., for the purpose of organization and the transaction of all other business except the nomination of the candidate for congress.

The convention will reconvene at 1 o'clock and proceed with the election of a candidate for congress.

The convention shall be composed of 116 delegates, apportioned among the several counties of the district on a basis of one delegate for every 200 votes, and for each additional fraction of more than 100 votes cast for Fred A. Sims for secretary of state at the November election, 1906, the several counties being entitled to the following representation, viz.:
 Decatur, 13; Fayette, 10; Franklin, 7;
 Hancock, 11; Henry, 17; Rush, 13;
 Shelby, 16; Union, 5; Wayne, 24.

Necessary to choice, 56.
 Tickets to the convention will be distributed by the district chairman to the various county chairmen for their respective counties.

The county committees of the several counties wherein delegates have not been chosen, will apportion to the different townships of their respective counties the representation to which they are entitled, and make the necessary arrangements for the selection of delegates accordingly, giving notice at least two weeks by publication in the Republican press of their counties of the time and place of meetings for the selection of said delegates.

Dear Sirs:—

I bought one of your New Casaday High Lift Gang Plows of

 I have placed my order for another plow this year.

I considered this plow has them all beat in lightness of draft, convenience in handling and the quality of work it does. The tear is at ease by being in perfect line of draft.

Can recommend it to all who contemplate buying a gang plow.

RUSHVILLE, INDIANA, MARCH 14, 1908

The Eleventh congressional district held one of the greatest conventions ever held in the State. There were two candidates in the field, Dr. Charles H. Good, of Warren, Ind., and George B. Lockwood, of Marion, Ind. A deadlock was the feature of this convention and the balloting lasted for twenty-seven hours when finally Dr. Good was nominated on the 609th ballot. The result of the convention was a defeat for the "organization" and the inference to be drawn from it is that voters become more and more independent. In this day and age voters read and think and through the press they are kept well informed, consequently they come to conclusions which cannot be swayed. Hence these surprises.

In almost every community there are families who, when sickness comes or work is slack, have to be helped by their neighbors or by the town. Investigation shows that in the majority of cases this condition is not due to physical inability to work or to difficulty in ordinarily securing work. Neither is it always due to drink, although usually that is a contributory cause. The causes are found in shiftlessness, unwise management in the home, and to foolish ways of spending money. People in the receipt of from nine to twelve dollars per week spend their money for useless fire and other objects altogether out of keeping with their station in life, instead of buying moderately that which is useful and necessary, and laying up something for the proverbial rainy day. Such foolish and imprudent ways are bound to produce poverty, misery and helplessness. And the children raised in such families are more than likely to become idle and criminal and be a burden upon society unless strong counteracting influences are early set to work. It is a question worth considering whether a practical course in domestic economy in our public schools would not be helpful in producing better ideas of living and more comfortable homes.

Democratic papers are trying to make a little cheap political capital out of the prevailing conditions in the labor market. Under no system of government and in no land under the sun is it possible to prevent action and reaction in trade and industry and during periods of depression there must, of necessity be idle men.

Another thing, the man who works faithfully, who demonstrates his indispensability to his employer is the man who is assured of steady work in good times and bad. When there is a slackening of business the least efficient labor is the first to be dismissed and the man who by skill and industry and loyalty earns the confidence of his employer and yields to the latter the highest profit on his toil is the man who will be cared for when the financial sky is overclouded.

There are thousands of men out of work in the United States today who had no appreciation of their opportunities a few months ago; who set no store by their positions and who concerned themselves only in exchanging as little labor as possible for the highest market price. The labor market was then in their favor, and they could dictate their own terms. When the demand for manufactured products fell away these men were the first released, and by the same token they will be the last to be re-employed. The Republican party is in no wise responsible for the temporary lull in business since the same administration policies under which the republic enjoyed the most extraordinary prosperity it has ever known or that any other nation has ever experienced, remain unchanged.

ADMINISTRATOR HAS FILED SUIT IN COURT

Augusta Walden, as administrator for the estate of Bryant Walden deceased, has filed suit in the Rush circuit court against Alphens Walden, Howard Newsum and Augustus Walden to pay debts.

INDIANA POLITICS

BY ROBERT J. TUCKER

Indianapolis, Ind., March 14.—A general remonstrance signed by a majority of the voters of a township is not sufficient to defeat an application for a license to sell intoxicating liquor in a ward of a city within the township. This is the effect of a decision of the appellate court affirming the case of Freeman Miller et al. vs. James Givens. The appellants were a majority of the legal voters of Richland township, Jay county, in which the city of Dunkirk is situated, and had filed such a remonstrance. But Givens obtained a license to keep a saloon in the Second ward of Dunkirk, in spite of the remonstrance, and the court holds that he was entitled to it under the law. Judge Myers says that the original Nicholson law was interpreted as treating city wards and townships on a separate basis and there is nothing in the blanket remonstrance law indicating any purpose to change this construction of the law.

Suit to annul the lease of the New Telephone company to the Indianapolis Telephone company has been filed in the circuit court by Elliott R. Hooton, prosecuting attorney, in his capacity as a representative of the state of Indiana. The proceedings are in the form of information, with a prayer that the information result in annulling the lease of the New Telephone company; the ousting of the Indianapolis Telephone company from all rights and franchises unlawfully held; the restoration of the property and plant of the New Telephone company to the stockholders of that company; the requirement that the New Telephone company hold and operate the property for the interest of creditors and stockholders. The suit is filed under a decision of the supreme court of the United States, in the Vandalla railroad case, that one public service corporation cannot take over bodily another public service corporation with its rights and franchises.

All factions of the United Mine Workers, who are in session here in extraordinary national convention, are united on one question—that this is no time for a big soft-coal strike. It appears to them that it would only bring favorable results to coal operators, who have big stocks of coal stored for such a contingency, and who stand charged by President Mitchell with trying to work these off at strike or strike-scare prices. However, up to this time no leader seems to have any definite idea what policy the miners' national convention will adopt to guide it now or after March 31, when the present mining contracts expire in all of the big soft coal fields, without any new contracts being made to go into effect April 1. The whole matter of formulating a policy to report to the convention for discussion, acceptance or rejection, is now in the hands of a subcommittee, to which it was referred.

While there is considerable opposition apparent to the re-election of Thomas Taggart as national committeeman, no one has been announced as a candidate to oppose him. The fact that Taggart proposes to retire as national chairman and has been a heavy contributor to the campaign fund, is causing members of the organization to discountenance the movement to defeat him for committeeman. In fact, many of the leaders are afraid that it will prove difficult to find anyone else as ready to stand for heavy assessments as Taggart. While he is charged with using the organization to further his commercial enterprises, it is not denied that he has been the chief contributor to the campaign fund.

Charles C. Conn of Elkhart, who is making a vigorous campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor, has opened headquarters here. Conn is running large advertisements in the papers declaring that if he is elected he will establish a new political regime. His manager says that he is receiving encouraging reports from throughout the state. Rev. Thomas Kuhn of Richmond has also opened headquarters here. The other candidates for governor are expected to open their headquarters within a few days.

Alfred F. Potts, a well-known promoter of public enterprises here, has entered the race for the Republican nomination for state senator at the request of two score of business men and attorneys, who petitioned him to become a candidate. The nomination will be made by direct primaries and Potts believes he can win. The Republican leaders are attempting to bring out some high-class business men for places on their county and legislative ticket.

CURRENT COMMENT

In Germany a dealer in planchets has been arrested for representing that by means of this device hypnotism could be practiced and the future revealed. His income is reported to have been $1,700 a day. Thirty years ago the planchet had a vogue in the United States. It is now about due for a return performance here along with blue glass cures, the crinoline and other discarded fancies of a former generation.

The two companies of the Twenty-fourth infantry, colored, returning from the Philippines, will be stationed at Madison Barracks and Fort Ontario in spite of the fact that protests have been made from both places. "But it's Mr. Thomas Atkins when the guns begin to shoot."

And there was Marshal Bazaine, who surrendered Metz. He, too, was condemned to death and had his sentence commuted to imprisonment for twenty years. He escaped, only to die in poverty in his place of refuge, unwept, unhonored and unsung.

"They also serve who only stand and wait," said Mr. Taft to the West Point cadets. Which is apt advice to a standing army that waits for trouble.

If at some future day the treasury finds $29,000,000 and accrued interest straying into the conscience fund it will know whom to suspect.

Indifference and carelessness are the advance fools of failure.

Building of Monster Navy A Grave Mistake.

By Justice DAVID J. BREWER of the United States Supreme Court.

THE glory of this nation is not in its increase in armament, but in its present course of SWEET PEACE. Well do I know that many of our greatest thinking men contend that this nation should build up a GREAT NAVY AND A MAMMOTH ARMY in order to maintain its prominent and respectable place among the great nations of the world.

I HAVE NO HESITANCY IN SAYING THAT OUR NATION IS MAKING A GRAVE MISTAKE IN ITS EFFORT TO BUILD UP A MONSTER NAVY. IT IS UNCALLED FOR. WE DON'T NEED IT. WE ARE 3,000 MILES FROM THE NEAREST NATION, AND THERE IS NO DANGER OF BEING MOLESTED.

War costs money. The civil war left this country in debt to the amount of $3,000,000,000. INDUSTRIES AND AGRICULTURE SUFFERED, and commerce was virtually abandoned. Two-thirds of that debt was paid off in 1896, but since that time our industries have increased far beyond our dreams, and yet up to the present time WE HAVE NOT PAID OFF A CENT OF THAT REMAINING $1,000,000,000. Why? Because our surplus is being used toward producing a great modern navy. We could have paid every cent of that debt by now but for this, and think what a PLEASURE AND A PRIDE we should feel to look upon the world and say that we are the one nation that does not owe a cent!

When I speak for peace I DO NOT INFER THAT WE ARE AFRAID OF WAR. I know our people too well for that. They possess a grim tenacity that practically assures victory over any nation.

LOCALS WENT DOWN IN DEFEAT

Morristown Team won the Basket Ball Game by Very Hard Work

LARGE CROWD ATTENDED

Local Team will Play the Connorsville Boys on Next Friday Night

The basket ball game between Morristown and the local team played at the Graham school building last night was largely attended by an interested and enthusiastic audience. The game was a fast one from start to finish and was well played by both teams.

In the very outset the Morristown boys started off with a jump, which took the local contestants off their feet and the first half of the game resulted in a score of 12 to 8 in favor of Morristown.

In the second half Rushville started out in good shape and it looked for a while as though the local team would win the laurels they so ardently desired, but the visitors soon had the best of them and the game ended with a score of 28 to 15, in favor of Morristown.

Morristown is the strongest high school team in the State. Out of eighteen games played this season with teams over the State they have won seventeen, one game being a tie.

However, the local boys gave them the hardest tussle of the season last night and they were compelled to work for their last victory.

The feature plays of the game were by Williams and Bankert of the local team and by Pierson, of Morristown. The local team will play Connorsville on next Friday evening.

FOR MEN ONLY

"For Men Only" the invitation read, of which over one thousand were sent out by T. W. Lytle, the druggist. The hour named on the card was 7:30 o'clock Friday night, March 13th. That was the cause of the great crowd of men gathered at the corner of Main and Third streets last night.

Today was the annual "Seed Day" when the druggist gives away free seeds to the women of this county, and the affair last night was arranged that the gentlemen might share in the pleasant event. It was in the nature of a reception and hundreds thronged the place during the evening. The store was elaborately decorated with huge branches with twirling, many colored sweet peas. Out flowers of many varieties reposed in large vases about the store. John Ramey, president at the punch bowl, and Ed Pittman and Louis Lytle gave away cigars, while the proprietor, T. W. Lytle met his visitors at the door with the air and grace of a English butler.

The latest fad is to have a mascot on your automobile. It is not a dog or cat or any other living bringer of luck, but just a little brass or nickel figure of weird or grotesque design. It is mounted on the bonnet of the car and is supposed to ward off bad luck, especially overzealous constables, police traps, bad roads and accidents. A number of them have been seen on the avenues and in the parks of New York city. Some of the figures are those of constables in absurd designs, others of roosters, monkeys, elephants and other animals. Some autoists have a figure of old Nick—perhaps in the hope of scaring off policemen—and others adorn their cars with freakish figures of cats.

MENTAL CHEWING GUM.

Instructor Urges Wellesley Girls to Give Up Bridge Whist.

Miss Clare M. Howard, professor of rhetoric and composition at Wellesley college in Wellesley, Mass., who never sat in a game of whist, severely scores bridge playing among the students. Miss Howard has issued a statement to the students in which she says:

"The bridge playing fever does not abate. It threatens to become a fixed form of relaxation in college, especially among women who cannot, like their brothers, go out at night to break street lamps, pester the policemen and make such like protests against the higher life.

"The rowdiest college boy, however, does not probably spend so much time in his relaxation as does the quiet but constant bridge player in our Wellesley community.

"When one thinks of an undergraduate's ignorance of the world, how sad it is to contemplate our foolish virgins playing bridge.

"Even the emptiest mind must chew on something, and bridge provides a sort of mental chewing gum.

"To wear the colors of a college woman and to spend half one's time in emulating the accomplishments of addelees is to be a traller in the camp.

"There are accomplishments of society women which college girls might cultivate—a beautiful voice, beautiful movements and every sort of care for the body—but not the trick of playing bridge, that last infirmity of empty minds."

PEDIMENT FOR HARRIMAN.

Stone Block, Finely Carved, Will Surmount Entrance to New House.

E. H. Harriman, president of the Union Pacific railroad, is having sculptured in Utica, N. Y., a pediment of Indiana limestone to surmount the principal entrance to the residence he is building on a mountain top at Arden, N. Y. The pediment is fourteen feet by three feet six inches by four feet two inches.

Out of the face of this great block of stone has been carved an elaborate design of the chase. In the middle is the head of a deer with a bold showing of antlers, the top extending beyond the confines of the general design. Underneath the deer head is a game bag inclosed in netting and beside it a bow.

On either side of the head crouch two life sized figures of hounds. At each end of the design is a horn of plenty, with a display of fruits. In the background are a wreath of leaves, a quiver, arrows and a hunter's horn, spears, a gun and a hunting knife.

SERPENT NOW STINGS WATSON

Editor Whom he Saved from a Prison Sentence, Pleases to Attack Him

CASE OF UNGRATEFULNESS

Explanation of Editor Deem's Attitude Towards Watson who Lives Above Such Things

The editor of the Knightstown Banner, who is a delegate to the State convention, declares he is not for Watson. For the past few weeks he has been abusive in the extreme, never halting to say the most bitter things against the Rushville man. The New Castle Courier took him over the coals this week in great fashion and gave him to understand that it was the sense of the vast majority of Republican voters in the Sixth district that Watson receive a solid delegation from his own balliwick. But Editor Deem still wiggles around and makes all sorts of alibis why he does not stand for Watson. All of them are as inconsistent as the man himself.

It is probably meet and just that the public have a little light thrown upon the situation that they might judge why this individual is up in arms. To begin with it is a pure and unadulterated case of ungratefulness from beginning to end. And it is probably a fortunate matter that editor Deem has a very small audience in a community where they take the homeopathic doses which he dispenses each week in a "weakly" publication with a piece of rock salt, for it makes his sin against a brother a lesser and venial one.

The story is a brief one. At one time editor Deem was postmaster at Knightstown. This fact in itself would suffice for an explanation to many people. After he had a taste of it he formed a craving appetite which could not be shaken out of his system until he was sent a cure from Washington in the form of a notification that another man had been appointed to take up the duties of the office at the expiration of his term. He did not have the manliness or will power to quit of his own accord. Of course Watson was made to bear the brunt. Since that time Deem has sent his spear into Watson's side on every possible occasion.

How soon man forgets. How little we appreciate some of the great acts performed for us by others. All of us have these failings to a certain extent, but it is more pronounced in the case of the Knightstown editor. How he could forget what Watson did for him when he sorely needed help is inexplicable; how any man could forget such a friend and even stoop so low as to abuse him is beyond comprehension.

It was while Deem was postmaster that he was caught up by the Federal authorities, and from all appearances he had a prison sentence staring him in the face. Did he abuse the "little, insignificant man" then? Well, hardly. He was one of the first to whom he went crying out for assistance. He was charged with paying all his bills with stamp out of the office that he might increase the revenues of the office and thereby secure an increase in salary, a gross violation of the postal laws. With that deep feeling of friendship and good will towards all of his acquaintances, which characterizes the man Watson, he immediately volunteered his services to assist the troubled postmaster in every legitimate manner possible, and it was largely, or more properly speaking, wholly through the earnest and untiring efforts of the Sixth district congressman that Deem was saved from serving a term of years in the penitentiary.

And this is the sort of man that is now opposing Watson, when he owes him more than any one other man on earth. For shame!

J. B. SCHRIOTTE

His COURTSHIP

By HELEN R. MARTIN,
Author of "Tillie: A Mennonite Maid."

Copyright, 1907, By McClure, Phillips & Company.

"It don't comê easy to me to tell about what happened there, fur all I'm used to it fur some twenty years now. If Eunice wasn't workin' out with pop and Abe this after in the fields over I'd change the subject," she said, using the phrase with a self-conscious air of employing elegant language, "fur us we don't never talk anything before her about what happened upstairs there; it's near twenty-one years back a'ready. Eunice she was just a little over a year old."

She sat down to tell her story, and Georgiana and Daisy returned to the settee, the latter with her notebook open on her lap.

"We were keepin' hotel here and we had a-many comers and goers. Here one day a couple come, a man and his missus and their baby a year and a half old. They was tony people—that I must give 'em—and they had money a plenty. They sayed they'd stay a while, hein' as they liked my cookin', though to be sure they didn't eat much, neither one of 'em. The missus was always wonderful pale and she never could fetch a smile. She was always settin' and thinkin' starin' in front of herself and not noticin' no person nor nothin'. She didn't seem to have no heart fur that baby of hern."

"She wouldn't mind, still, that it was settin' on her lap and she'd near leave it slip off. Him and her often had words up in their rooms. They rented two rooms off of us and they furnished 'em grand with such a bookcase and writin' desk and a bedroom suit. Me and pop us we used to listen outside in the hall still. We couldn't hear what they sayed much, but him he'd scold in a low voice, and her she'd cry faintlike so's no one would hear. The mister he used to go in town frequent, if not oftener, and I used to tell pop still, 'You mind if some day he don't come back no more. I kin see it at him how he's tired of her yet. Yes, he'll go off and leave her with that child to keep, now you see onct if he don't,' I sayed to pop."

"The child was Eunice, I suppose?" In his interest in her narrative, not merely for itself, but for any light it might throw upon Eunice, Kinross forgot to be Pete and leaned forward across the table, regarding Mrs. Morningstar with a thoughtful frown. The sound of his own voice brought him back to himself, and he again glanced with apprehension at the girls. But they, too, were so interested in the story that even the fact of the farmhand's idling in the kitchen while his employer and Eunice worked in the fields escaped their notice.

"Yes, it was our Eunice," Mrs. Morningstar answered, "but that don't come in yet. I mustn't get ahead of my story. Onct when I could hear they was scrappin' I peeped in the keyhole—not that I wanted to be inquisitive, but a body likes to know, too, what's goin' on in their own hotel. Well, that there woman could have easy got a divorce cheap if she's of best brag up some remarks where he made."

"What remarks?" inquired Kinross. "Why," she exclaimed, "he run at her with a razor!"

"Remarks?" he questioned lazily. "And me, I hollered and run. And it was just the next night the crime was commit. It was the 27th of July. We was called to the room by the screamin' of the little baby, and we had to break the lock, and there we found the woman dead in her bed, lyin' in a pool of blood, and the man he had new! There was a envelope pinned to the baby with some money in it. We conceived it was meant fur to pay any one where would keep the child. Well, us we didn't give no one else the chance. Me and pop we took and kep' the child."

"How much money was there?" inquired Kinross.

"That ain't neither here nor there," she answered curtly, coloring and looking uncomfortable. "It wasn't so wonderful much, considerin' all the trouble we had to take raisin' the child and the trouble we're havin' now," she added vindictively, "with her runnin' after our Abe the way she's doin'. To be sure," she conceded, "we didn't raise her the way her mother was raisin' her. I never did see a baby tended the way she done—a clean white dress every day—now mind! Yes, indeed! Oh, that baby mustn't never get dirty when her mother had her! She must be clean all the time and get washed all over every day, mind you, 'stead of onct a week, like us country people does to our babies. Then she practiced this here hy-geen on it—she must scald the milk to foamgate the germs, or whatever, and wash her mouth and eyes with borax water. You wouldn't believe anybody'd be that dumm to take all that there trouble, would you? But that there's hy-geen. I hear lots of towners believes in this here hy-geen. Well, after we found the dead corp in there I wouldn't do it to sleep at the hotel till after the funeral was. I slep' to the neighbors'. The news of the crime got put out all over the country, and we had a wonderful big funeral. But not one mourner," she added in a shocked tone, "not one crape well! When there ain't no crape wells it don't remind me of a funeral, ain't not? Well, the preacher he had a wonderful solemn sermon. There was two or three sayed to me afterward how they felt under his sermon, and one sayed how she liked to hear a solemn preachin' like him on a funeral so that her heart gets affected."

"As a general I kin stand a good bit. I don't soon go to bed sick, but that there crime sent me to bed fur near a week, with all the work layin'. Pop he was so much fur tellin' all about it to comers and goers, and it would work me up so to hear him come over it all that I used to wish we didn't keep hotel so's there wouldn't be no comers and goers to tell it to."

She paused to take breath, but Kinross was ready with a question to urge her on.

"How do you know that it was not a case of suicide rather than murder?"

"The coroner's jury," replied Mrs. Morningstar, "sayed she didn't suicide herself, but was murdered in the first degree."

"It is the murdered woman who haunts the room?"

"I don't know," she answered, turning white again. "I ain't never slep' there. Onct, before we quit hotelin' and began farmin' this here place, we slep' a travelin' man in that there room, and about the middle of the night he waked us all with runnin' through the hall, screechin' he'd saw a ghost. And after that we never put no one in there no more. Their furniture is all there yet too. The neighbors tells us that near every night any person passin' our place late kin see a queer light in the window of that there room. Our Abe seen it onct too."

"Peter," Daisy turned eagerly to Kinross, "are you husky enough to sleep in that room? If you are you'll tell us about the ghost, won't you, tomorrow evening—if you meet her?"

"Ain't you got afraid to sleep there now, Doc—Pete—after what I tole you yet?" Mrs. Morningstar asked incredulously.

"I'll tell you tomorrow morning," answered Kinross. "Maybe I'll cut and run, too, like the traveling man. You never can tell what you'll do when you're up against a ghost."

"Say," Mrs. Morningstar suddenly exclaimed, her eyes moving from one to another of her listeners with an anxiety amounting to distress, "look at here. You won't speak nothin' to Eunice, will you, about this here? Us we always kep' it from her. It would be ugly to tell her her pop murdered her mom in the first degree."

"And," thought Kinross, "that her father left a sum of money for her support."

"Doesn't she ever ask questions about herself?" inquired Daisy. "If I were she it wouldn't take me long to get aboard."

"There fur awhile she did," Mrs. Morningstar said. "But us we put her off with just tellin' her her parents left her here a waif."

"If the whole neighborhood knew of it I don't see how you've kept it from her," remarked Georgiana. "Surely some one would be apt to tell her."

"We never let her go much. We kep' her close at home, just so's she wouldn't hear nothin'. We thought it would be so upsettin'."

"To learn how she's been slavin' for her livin' which probably had been paid for," thought Kinross.

"I don't know what's made me speak all this here to you," Mrs. Morningstar continued, with increasing anxiety in her face and voice. "I don't often come over it. I don't like to. But I was took back so with Doc's—Pete's—astin' fur the dare to sleep in that there room that the whole thing come out before I knowed right I was tellin' it. And now mebbe yous will tell Eunice."

Kinross, who was watching the woman attentively, was sure that, judging from her habitual treatment of Eunice, her present intense apprehension was certainly not due to the cause to which she attributed it—tender compassion for the girl. She was evidently holding back something which if known would compromise her. What could it be? He was pretty sure that in spite of their greed neither Mr. nor Mrs. Morningstar would be deliberately dishonest. The Pennsylvania German, however "close," usually has integrity if for no other reason than because of his fear of hell. "Perhaps," he reflected, "Eunice herself—contradictory and unaccountable as she is in so many respects—knows more about herself than any one suspects."

His lukewarm desire to investigate the haunted room had increased, with his knowledge of its history, to a keen eagerness to get at it, and he determined that that very night should find him in the shut off quarter of the house.

Mrs. Morningstar was now summoned from the room by Ollie's calling to her to "come lay over the dough."

"Gracious," cried Daisy, making a note in her book as the landlady departed reluctantly, "she's going to 'lay over the dough!' No more bread for mine!"

POPPIES TO HIDE DEBRIS.

San Francisco Will Beautify Vacant Lots in Welcoming Pacific Fleet.

When the Pacific fleet arrives in San Francisco the vacant lots in the burned district will be all aglow with the color of gold, for the gorgeous California poppy will then be in full bloom to give welcome to the sailors. Among the debris will shine the bright yellow of the state flower, and where desolation still meets the eye there will be a carpet of gold, the like of which was never seen outside the bounds of California.

This transformation of the vacant spaces of the burned district will be made possible through the foresight and taste of Raphael Weill, chairman of the decoration committee of the citizens' fleet reception committee. He requested the park commissioners to plant the bare spaces on condition that he provided the seeds. The request was readily granted, and about fifteen men under the direction of Superintendent McLaren of Golden Gate park are sowing yellow poppies wherever there is enough soil upon which to grow them. The gardeners say the poppies will be in full bloom by the time the fleet reaches San Francisco, and so the sailors will be greeted with the novel spectacle of city lots covered with a profusion of sunny blossoms typical of the state that bids them a characteristic welcome.

When the nation's defenders set foot ashore for the grand parade they will be treated to the rare sight of California flowers worked into floats representative of distinct periods of the state's history.

Butter From a Tree.

In search for new plants of utility attention has been drawn to the karite tree of French West Africa and the adjacent territory to the eastward. This is not a forest tree, but grows in open spaces and in gardens. Its fruit is edible. The hard shell seeds contain a fatty substance used by the natives as butter, and it is suggested that this substance should be valuable for other purposes. The gum, not like rubber, into which the sap coagulates is another article of possible commercial value.

Boat to Travel on Sea Bottom.

A submarine has been built for sponge fishing by a company at Bizerte, a fortified seaport of Tunis, in Africa. When sunk it can travel on a sort of wheel along the bottom of the sea, being worked by two submarine oars from the inside. It collects sponges by means of a mechanical gripper and has electrical searchlights, a telephone and a speaking tube by which it can communicate with a boat on the surface. The submarine has already been down to a depth of 330 feet.

TATTOO TO TELL "REDS."

Rome Policeman Would Put Indelible Sign on Each Anarchist.

A member of the political police squad in Rome exclusively intrusted with the surveillance of anarchists has submitted a novel plan for identifying "reds" throughout the world, says a cable dispatch recently received in Chicago. He proposes to tattoo the anarchists on a visible part of the body with a small indelible sign, varying in color in the different countries and in shape according to the dangerous propensities of the individual marked.

The sign is to be kept secret and known only to the international police. It is asserted by this system the police would be enabled to watch the anarchists and thus prevent attacks similar to that made upon Chief Shipley in Chicago. The idea is favored in Chicago, although the police refuse to discuss it until it has been approved by the powers.

TO TOUR AND BARTER

Object of Novel Voyage Planned by a Financier.

OCEAN STEAMER PURCHASED

Colonel Robert M. Thompson of New York and His Party Will Visit Indian, Chinese and Japanese Ports in a Floating Abode of Luxury.

The life of a merchant prince on his own ship, with the far east as his destination, is one that Colonel Robert M. Thompson, a financier of New York city, has chosen to follow, and he will soon depart for the orient with a number of chosen friends on an ocean steamer which he has purchased expressly for this purpose.

The vessel will carry a cargo of merchandise shipped to various destinations in the regular course of commerce, for which the usual freight rates will be charged, and the proceeds of the carriage will be applied toward defraying the expenses of the outward trip.

This original undertaking savors of the times of 1812, when fortunes were made or lost on the high seas, but now no dread of pirate crews can spoil the pleasurable side of the enterprise or interfere with the commercial end of the plan. Colonel Thompson has converted a tramp steamer into a floating abode of luxury, and every fitting has been made as harmonious and comfortable as wealth can make it, says the New York Tribune. The trip will extend over several months, for haste is not part of the programme.

Besides Colonel and Mrs. Thompson and the Stephen Pells, the party will include other well known New Yorkers and several Canadians. Among the latter will be Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Nesbitt, who are residents of Toronto. Mr. Nesbitt is a lawyer and for a time enjoyed the distinction of being the youngest chief justice in the Dominion, but he preferred a general practice and is now an expert on mining rights and claims. In the far east mines are to be bought for a song, but deals must be skillfully handled to be without flaw in title or grant where the orient is concerned.

Poking about all places of interests along the coast to be touched will consume a certain amount of time, and no opportunity for sightseeing will go astray. At each place it is proposed to barter for curios or more popular goods, so that the return trip also will show a profit balance. The weeks to be spent in Indian, Chinese and Japanese ports are looked forward to with delight by all of the party, for, while the trading and business side will take the foremost place in the minds of the men, the temples, the native costumes and customs and the rare jumble of the artistic and outlandish will appeal to the women, who will doubtless be of great assistance in the selection of wares to return as part of the cargo.

Each passenger has all the space he desires to spread his belongings in, and all know one another so well that the length of the trip is an extra inducement instead of holding the chance that some one of them may end it abruptly and return overland because of disagreement. The voyage as planned leads through the Mediterranean and Suez canal to India and other parts of Asia. Eventually a landing will be made in San Francisco after a look in at Alaska.

When the United States is reached and the ship and cargo are sold Colonel Thompson, it is said, expects that the enterprise will have paid for itself, the provisioning even included, and on the sale of the steamer a profit is thought probable.

An especially good food has been engaged, who will, it is hoped, prepare such food that even the "third day de-spairers" will be tempted and recover their appetites. The deck has ample space for the usual ship games, and, as more than half of those going are bridge players of skill and much practice, gray days will not be much noticed. Their friends hope that the pleasures planned will all come true.

Pullman Cars to Be "Dry."

It is reported that an order is being sent out from the offices of the Pullman headquarters in Chicago to discontinue the sale of liquor on cars of that company in every part of the United States, the order to go into effect as soon as the liquors now on hand can be disposed of without loss. It is expected to begin in the east and to work westward, and the order may become operative in New England and the middle states about March 1. It is understood that the company is moved to take this step because of the direct effect that anti-saloon laws in the several states have had upon its business. Not only have the changed conditions of the last twelve months cut deeply into the profits formerly derived from this source, but on long runs liquor can be sold for only portions of the distance, and the company is constantly in danger of prosecution for lawbreaking through carelessness of employees.

Big Railroad's Care of Its Employees.

Since the organization of the relief department of the Pennsylvania railroad in February, 1886, $17,434,059.41 has been paid out in benefits. Of this sum $10,316,066.50 was paid on account of disabilities and the remainder in death benefits. These figures are taken from the January report of the relief fund, which has just been compiled. In the month of January payments amounting to $168,735.16 were made—$64,216.73 for death benefits and $102,518.43 for the relief of members disabled or incapacitated for work in the company's service.

STEER ROPING FEAT.

World's Record Broken by Milton Bealer of Oklahoma.

DONE IN TWENTY SECONDS.

Wild Range Animal Was Chased, Roped, Thrown and Tied in the Third of a Minute—Former Record Only a Little Slower—Widely Known Cowboys Participated.

Before 10,000 persons Milton Bealer of Ninnekah, Okla., broke the world's record for lassoing and roping a wild steer the other day at Enid, Okla. Bealer's time was twenty seconds flat. The former champion was W. E. Carroll of Mangum, Okla., who had a record of twenty-one and three-quarter seconds. Carroll witnessed Bealer's great feat and declared him the world's champion.

Thirty steers from the Panhandle of Texas, specially imported for this occasion, were the objects of the lasso. They came from a 20,000 acre ranch and were as wild as the plains of the southwest could produce. Twelve widely known cowboy ropers participated in the contest, each mounted on his own pony.

When one of the range steers was released from the corral he was chased across the field until he came in front of the judges' stand, and if then running at a high rate of speed a flag was dropped and the fleet footed pony, with his rider swinging a lariat, dashed down the field after the steer.

The time made by Bealer appears incredible in view of what he had to do. His pony ran 100 yards before the lasso's loop fell over the steer's giant horns. That moment the pony turned, digging his hoofs into the ground, braced himself and waited.

The rushing steer reached the limit of the rope and turned a complete somersault, landing on his side with a thud. Unable to use his head, the steer could not rise.

Bealer was not on the pony. The very moment he saw the lariat land well over the steer's horns he slid from the pony's back and ran toward the roped beast. With six feet of rope he tied all four feet of the steer together in such a manner that they could not be freed, jumped on the beast, raised his hand and removed his hat as a signal to the judges and the spectators that he was through.

All this was done in the third part of a single minute. Milton Bealer is just past twenty-two years old. He has spent his life on a ranch.

NEVER WITHOUT HIS COFFIN

Traveler Always Instructs Purasers to Prevent His Burial at Sea.

Max Gibbs of Milwaukee, who frequently goes to Europe on business not unconnected with mortuary things, got back to New York the other day with his coffin, which he always carries with him. He gives instructions to the pursers not to have him buried at sea. Otherwise he would not be able to squeeze himself into the coffin, which is sixteen inches long. His puzzle question to those that have not heard it is how is he going to get himself into the coffin.

If you give it up, he will tell you that his body will be cremated first. The coffin is metallic and is lined with plush, on which there is a little American flag. Max in condensed form will be wrapped in this flag before they nail his coffin down and put him away in a Milwaukee cemetery.

Arcade For Shoppers at Sea.

The Holland-American steamship officials at New York received a cablegram recently telling of the successful launching at the yards of a well known shipbuilding firm in Belfast of the steamship Rotterdam. The new steamer, which is to ply between New York and Boulogne and the latter port and Rotterdam, is 608 feet long, 77 feet beam and has a normal speed of 17 knots. She has accommodations for 505 first class, 529 second class and 2,500 third class passengers. The Rotterdam's novel features include a palm garden, a terrace garden, a shoppers' arcade, with flower shops, bookstalls, hairdressers, manicures, photographer, stenographer and candy store. The new ship will also have the very latest thing in fire alarm equipment and in passenger elevators.

An Orchestra of Murderers.

In order to relieve the monotonous life of the convicts at Numea, the capital of the French penal settlement in New Caledonia, the authorities have consented to the organization of an orchestra recruited from the ranks of such prisoners as are musically inclined. The conductor, who formerly played at the Paris Opera House, has thrice been convicted of murder, the first clarinet was an innkeeper who slew six of his customers, while the operator of the big drum made away with his landlord. The solo cornet murdered his father and the trombone his wife.

To Teach Eskimos to Fish.

The Danish government is about to start a biological expedition to Greenland to investigate the fishing possibilities of its coasts, as it is believed there are good chances for developing a profitable business that will benefit the whole country. The members of the expedition will teach modern methods of fishing to the Eskimos, who often starve because they are unable to accomplish much with their old fashioned style of sealing. The party will stay in the north two years.

RANGE FOR BUFFALO

Plan to Save Remnant of Animals From Extinction.

FEDERAL PRESERVE WANTED

Bill to Be Introduced to Reserve Part of Flathead Indian Lands in Montana—American Bison Association Wants Animals Owned by an Indian Purchased.

A plan is under consideration by President Roosevelt and several members of congress to make certain the future existence of the American bison, popularly known as the American buffalo. William T. Hornaday, director of the Bronx Zoological park in New York city and president of the American Bison association, is co-operating with the president to save the remnant of a tribe of beasts that once numbered its members by the millions. Mr. Hornaday went to Washington recently and had a long interview at the White House with Mr. Roosevelt.

There are buffalo in nearly all of the zoos of the country, but the lives of the confined animals are at best precarious, and no one knows when accident or disease may wipe the captives out of existence. It is the wish of Mr. Hornaday, says a Washington correspondent of the New York Post, that a government range be provided for a herd of buffalo in the northwestern country where they may live in large measure as they lived when their only enemies were the red man and the wolf—a condition of life that made for longevity and for increase.

A few years ago a Flathead Indian named Pablo, living in Montana, had in his possession a herd of 350 buffalo, which he sold to the Canadian government. Most of the animals were turned loose in Canada, where it is said they are thriving. About one-half of them are being held for the Canadian government by the Indian. It is presumed these buffalo will be given their freedom within fence limitations in the near future. Pablo will have remaining in his possession about fifty of the animals, the increase since he agreed to sell his herd and some animals that he has picked up recently. The officers of the American Bison association desire that these animals shall be purchased and turned loose on the Flathead Indian reservation in Montana.

Senator Dixon of Montana has become interested in the scheme and will introduce a bill to set aside twenty square miles as a buffalo reserve. The Flathead land holdings are soon to be opened up to settlement, and the land that the government is asked to reserve as a range is almost totally unfit for agricultural purposes. Mr. Hornaday thinks that if such a range is provided the buffalo will double their numbers in three or four years and that the question of the preservation of an animal which supposedly had been doomed to extinction will be solved.

If the Dixon bill becomes a law, the range will be fenced and the buffalo left to themselves to find a living. Naturalists say that this splendid American animal is doomed to extinction unless the animals now in captivity are given the freedom of range and the food and surroundings which were natural to their ancestors before the white man began his war of extermination. The proposed range is said to have every facility for a buffalo preserve. There is an abundance of bunch grass, plenty of running water, ravines which will afford protection in winter and timber enough for shelter under other unfavorable weather conditions.

An appropriation was made by congress last year for the fencing in of a bison preserve in Oklahoma. Fifteen buffalo were turned loose in the preserve, and they are increasing in number and thriving physically. The range is known as the Wichita preserve and is situated in the heart of the country where once great herds of buffalo roamed at their own free will.

When the American Bison association was formed the herd of 250 animals which has been sold to the Canadian government was still in possession of the Flathead Indian, Pablo, but the sale was completed before the association had adopted its constitution or was prepared to begin its work. Many western newspapers criticized the organization for allowing the Canadian government to forestall it in the purchase of these animals. Officers of the association say this criticism was undeserved for the reason that at that time the association was without funds to carry on its work. They say that if the aid now asked of the government is extended it will not be too late to save the American buffalo from extermination.

It is a fact not generally known that there is still in existence a herd of wild bison. Up in the northern part of the province of Saskatchewan there are left a few animals known to the residents of that country as wood buffalo. How many animals there are and what their chances of continued existence are may be put down at best as matters of conjecture. It is the hope of naturalists that the Canadian government may undertake ultimately their protection and preservation. The layman's belief is that the wood buffalo and the buffalo of the plains are different species, but they are not. They are identical except for the fact that the wood buffalo are a little larger than are their southern family members.

NEED OF SCHOOL FIRE DRILL

Teach Pupils to Scale Ladders and Ropes, Says Ex-Fire Captain.

A. L. McKenzie, a former Cleveland fire captain, who for sixteen years taught school children fire drills, says the Collinwood school disaster is likely to occur in any city unless the present method of training pupils to escape from fires is changed. "The children of the Collinwood school," said he, "according to what I hear, lacked the proper training. In my time the captain of a fire district visited the Cleveland schools once a week during recess and taught the children to climb down scaling ladders and ropes, and this method was reduced to a science among the children."

"The method utilized in Pittsburg and elsewhere in drilling the children up and down a hall, through one door and out another, is absurd. When a fire breaks out they immediately become panic stricken. They should be taught to scale ladders and ropes."

The immediate inspection of every school building in Greater Pittsburg and such action to safeguard the lives of pupils and teachers as this inspection suggests are among the local effects of the Collinwood disaster. In one building alone the changes already indicated will cost more than $60,000.

CAMPAIGN YEAR

AND

THE YEAR 1908 WILL MAKE GREAT HISTORY

Probably no year since the Civil War has as great influence upon the United States as the coming year. The Presidential contest, both for nomination and election, involves much more than mere party rivalry. It involves the approval or rejection of the great economic reforms which mark the beginning of a new epoch in American history. It is a fight affecting every man, woman and child, and upon which the interest of the whole world is focused.

BEST OF PROOF.

That Hyomei Will Cure All Forms of Catarrhal Diseases.

Testimonials could be printed by the thousand, many of them from Rushville and nearby towns, saying that Hyomei absolutely cures all catarrhal troubles. The best proof of its unusual curative powers is the guarantee that Johnson's drug store give with every outfit they sell. "Money back if Hyomei does not do all that is claimed for it."

Hyomei is not a secret remedy. Its formula is freely given to physicians who want to know what they are using when they prescribe Hyomei. It is guaranteed under the Pure Food and Drug Law by Serial No. 1418.

There is no dangerous stomach drug when Hyomei is used. Its healing medication is breathed through a neat pocket inhaler, reaching every part of the air passages, destroying all catarrhal germs and curing the disease.

REINSTATEMENT SOUGHT BY JONES

Echo of the "Moonlight" Horse Meeting at Riverside Park will be Heard

W. A. Jones, of West Second street, one of the oldest and most prominent horsemen in our county and State, has made application to W. H. Knight, secretary of the American Trotting Association at Chicago, Illinois for his reinstatement.

It will be remembered in the fall of 1899 there was a "moon-light meeting" given at Riverside Park, near this city, by another local horseman for the benefit of marking a lot of colts, and several prominent men's names were used in connection with this meeting, among them, Mr. Jones. He was asked to come before the board at Chicago and upon failure to do so was expelled. Mr. Jones will appear in person before the board, where he will make affidavit substantiated by several others giving full and true details of the supposed meeting. The case will be heard in Chicago on May 4th.

TALK BENEFITED TEACHERS GREATLY

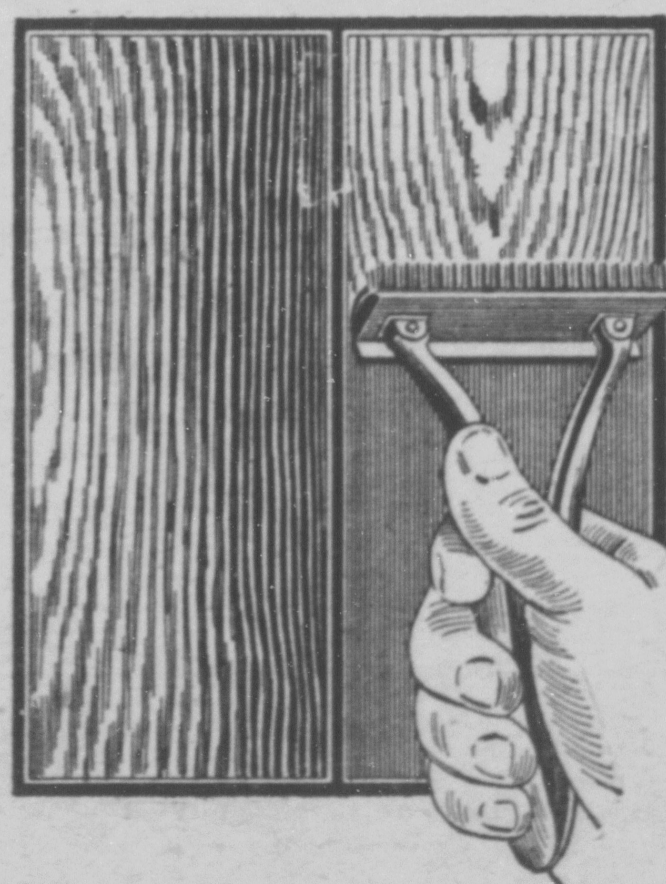

Instructor in Penmanship Gave Excellent Lecture on the art of Writing

Prof. J. H. Woodruff, superintendent of writing in the Indianapolis city schools, delivered a lecture before the teachers of the city schools at the court house today.

The teachers of the city schools feel that there is needed a more uniform system in writing among the pupils, and hired Prof. Woodruff to come to this city today at their own expense.

The lecture began at 9 o'clock and lasted until noon. For three hours the teachers listened to the lecture, which was very profitable and will probably be the means of assisting the local teachers in adjusting a uniform system of penmanship.

Gage and Fiske hats, fancy work and hair goods are now on display at the Tron Millinery.
